La Guía de vins de Catalunya 2019:

- Mas Collet 2016: 90p.

James Suckling tasting 2018:

- Mas Collet Selecció 2016: 91p. Bold, black fruit, balanced by generous, supple tannins, making this an easy red to enjoy. But it also has some real depth with notes of licorice and earth adding some complexity to the nose and the long finish. Drink now or hold.

Jancis Robinson "A Catalan Collection":

- Capçanes Mas Collet 2011, 16.5p: Blend of Garnacha with Cabernet and Tempranillo and Uncle Tom Cobley. All oak aged. Neat garnet. Brilliant amount of fruit, integrity and character per penny. Great dry but not drying finish after more than a hint of llicorella! Real structure. Tastes far more expensive. VGV. Drink 2014- 2018 • £10 Theatre of Wine

Tim's Tasting Notes:

- Mas Collet Barrica(2011): 90p. An oak-aged blend of Garnacha, Tempranillo, Carignan and Cabernet Sauvignon from the Capçanes co-operative that shows why Montsant is such a good value alternative to neighbouring Priorat. The oak is just a top note here, despite the name of the wine, adding complexity to the flavours of plum, cassis and hot stones. The wine finishes with a dry, mineral flourish that ties it all together, like a bow on a gift-wrapped present.

Jancis Robinson "Purple Pages", 2014, by Ferran Centelles:

- Capçanes, Mas Collet 2011 Montsant 15/20 Drink 2014-2015 Garnatxa, Carinyena, Ull de Llebre, Cabernet Sauvignon. 15-30 year old vines at 200-400 m. Diversity of vineyards from Capçanes and Guiamets. Nine months in American and French oak. This is a correct wine, easy drinking and not really concentrated. Sweet caramel, coffee and simple black fruit.

"Jancis Robinson, Julia Harding: www.jancisrobinson.com":

- "Mas Collet 2005...My choice this week is an indication of the outstanding consistency of quality and value for money represented by the wines from Celler Capçanes, ...similar in style to those of Priorat but generally at lower prices. .. this wine stood out for its combination of intense, sweet dark fruit, firm structure and lovely freshness. But it's far more than a fruit bomb; there's a savoury sour cherry tang on the finish and the slight sweetness added by the oak spice morphs into a more complex meaty flavour on the palate, thanks to the extra time this wine has been allowed in bottle - unusual for a wine at this price. This is seriously good value for money.

"Jancis Robinson – Wine of the week ", England:

- "Mas Collet 2001": "I've been meaning to spotlight this exceptional Catalan producer in the hills above Tarragona for ages. Those who have come across its compact, well-made reds will already know their signature ...Mind you, I take my hat off to any producer who is able to deliver a wine from a vintage as relatively 'old' as 2001, generally excellent in Spain, at such a low price. ...you can taste the same sort of earthy minerality as is evident in all good red Priorat...is very intense, ripe and full but very interesting, and could happily be cellared for another year or two." For more informations: www.jancisrobinson.com

"Observer FOOD", Tim Atkin/England:

- Tim Atkin: "My top twelve bottles of the year!: Mas Collet...:you'd pay more for a wine from neighbouring Priorato, but you wouldn't necessarily end up with a more pleasurable wine in your glass than this smoky, Grenache based wine from northern Spain."

"Independent", Anthony Rose", /England:

- "The 50 best wines this winter: Mas Colletthis aromatic four-way blend is... seriously good Spanish kit with its spicy sweet, blackcurrant and cherrystone fruitness and smooth tannins topped of with the vanilla flavour of oak."

"Telegraph Weekend", /England:

- "Wine of the week: Mas Collet...: A superb value red, bursting with warm flavours and seductive nuances of Mediterranean herbs, damsons and wild berries. A lovely, balanced wine..."

“The Guardian Weekend”, Malcom Gluck, /England:

- "Mas Collet... is a magnificent red. It has tantalising berries, teeth-clenching tannins and a wondrous texture." 17 points

“Evening Post (Mansfield), England:

- “Mas Collet: ... it is one of the best value Spanish wines around in terms of richness of flavour and depth. Quite a structure and body and eminently suitable ...”

“The Irish Times Magazine, Mary Dowey”: Ireland

- Mas Collet - Bottle of the week: “This is one of those sassy, soulful wines that makes you want to jump for joy – just because it tastes so pure, so “real”, in a world invaded by confected, characterless nonentities. Salute the new Spain! Made from the fruit of old Garnacha, Tempranillo, Cariñena and Cabernet Sauvignon vines by a reinvented co-op with vision, it has layer upon layer of vibrant flavour and a firm, long finish. The bottle just empties itself!”

“Wine Magazin”/England:

- “Priorato: The revolution in the mountains has now spread to neighbouring Tarragona where the Capçanes coop ... making reds with the power of a second row forward (seek out Capçanes ‘Mas Collet for proof)..”

“Decanter”, John Radford/England:

- “The New Spain – Spain’s hottest wines...D.O.Montsant...the most notable wines are those from Celler de Capçanes” “John Radford’s Top Five: Mas Collet”

”Jancis Robinson - Webside”: England

- “Celler de Capçanes reds: Just outside the official Priorat zone...is this marvellous producer. The Capçanes co-operative makes far, far better wines than it needs to satisfy its members. In fact, it seems to tailor-make them for value-conscious lovers of characterful reds thousands of miles away....Think of Celler de Capçanes reds as poor man’s Priorat in an unusual array of styles and none the worse for it...Mas Collet ...the beauty of this wine is that it is not like any other. Its grape mix is unusual but, more than that, it clearly comes from a very distinctive part of the world, where it hardly rains and the soil manages to impart a certain mineral strength... Costers del Gravet...Mas Donis...All these are wines to be chewed rather than gulped...”

Weinführer “Hallwag – 500 Weine unter 10€”: Germany

- “...der Mas Collet bringt sehr viel Fruchtaromen und feine Kräuternoten, aus denen ein beruhigender Duft von Kamilleblüten hervorsticht. Seine Röstaromen und der Kakaoduft sind Resultate der Lagerung in Barriquefässern. Auf das komplexe Bukett folgt ein weicher, vollmundiger Geschmack mit runden Gerbstoffen. Der stattliche Geschmack bleibt auch noch lange nach dem Schluck haften....Der Mas Collet ist ein ausgezeichnete Wein mit vielversprechender Zukunft, der nur knapp am dritten Glas vorbeiging.” Bewertung:2Gläser

- “Mas Collet 2000”: 86 Punkte

“Mondo-Weine der Welt”, Germany:

- “Auch die neuen Weine von Capçanes erinnern sehr an Priorato – kraftvolle, eigenständige Weine, mit viel Charakter” “Mas Collet 2000” (Fass): Sehr gut bis hervorragend!

“Der Südwestweinführer Spaniens” von Drechsler,Franke, Peter, Germany

- Mas Collet : Einer unserer Favoriten für den schmalen Geldbeutel...Auch am Gaumen absolut überzeugend.... Die kompakte Textur harmonisiert prächtig mit der ausgewogenen, gefälligen Art dieses Weines.....Lecker!... Fazit: KAUFEN, TRINKEN, STAUNEN
